Advertising messages that last!

According to a promotional products study specifically measuring impact, exposure and influence... 76.1% of respondents could recall the advertiser's name on a promotional product they had received in the past 12 months.*

"You never get a second chance to make a first impression."

Pacific Promotional Products can show you how to use custom-imprinted products to successfully present your customers with a lasting, positive representation of your business, organization, or event.

With over 20 years of advertising and marketing experience, we can assist you in identifying your marketing needs, and recommend items that will meet those needs and produce results.

The next time you are thinking about attracting new customers, promoting an event, fundraising, or just want to say thank you, think of us. We look forward to making your next marketing impression truly memorable.

*Study conducted by Promotional Products Association International (PPAI) 2004.
